The Schwarz & Flynn Families Visit U.S. Navy Yard and Arlington National Cemetery

USS Houston (CA-30) Family members: Donna Mae Flynn; Trudy Schwarz; John K. Schwarz; Cletus Flynn; Dennis Flynn; and Fulton Flynn visited the USS Houston (CA-30) Model at the Museum of the U.S. Navy in Washington, D.C. on 14 September 2016.

A September Visit to Arlington & the Navy Yard

By John K. Schwarz

Donna Flynn, widow of USS Houston (CA-30) Survivor David C. Flynn, contacted me in early September 2016 concerning a visit she and some of her family members intended to make to Arlington National Cemetery and the Museum of the U.S. Navy. Over the next few days, plans were made, and I arranged to have my mother, Association Co-founder Trudy Schwarz, come down from New Jersey by train to join the group—a 'mini gathering' of USS Houston CA-30 family members.

The weather couldn’t have been nicer as we all gathered on September 13 at a hotel near the Iwo Jima Memorial, then went out to dine at Mr. Peter Bota’s “Metro 29 Diner,” where we ate huge portions of terrific Greek/American fare, and our discussions were robust and engaging.

The next day we proceeded less than a mile to our first stop, Arlington National Cemetery. We all stayed together as a group and ceremoniously placed fresh, yellow roses on the USS Houston CA-30/HMAS Perth marker on McClellan Drive and on the following USS Houston CA-30 survivors’ graves, all resting in Section 12: Phillip 'Joe' Gans; Otto C. Schwarz; John Stefanek; David C. Flynn; and William Batchelor.

This was an emotional exercise for all of us, including Donna, who was making her first visit back to David’s grave since his burial, and of course, Trudy, who stood by Otto's side for so many years of this Association’s existence in support of his efforts. For me, as one of the four sons (next generations) in attendance, the overwhelming sentiment was the feeling of being just flat-out proud—a feeling I have each and every time I visit the graves of these brave men.

Next we walked on up to the Arlington House, the Robert E. Lee Memorial and museum at the very top of the cemetery grounds. The view that day was breath-taking. It seemed that the Pentagon was just a stone's throw away, down and to our right. The Washington, DC skyline extended directly ahead and all the way to our left.

After a short break, we went to our scheduled appointment for a chaperoned tour of the Navy Yard facility, including the Underwater Archaeology Branch; the Naval History & Heritage Command of the Department of the Navy; and of course, the museum housing the original model of the USS Houston CA-30. Many thanks to the NHHC’s Director, Rear Admiral Samuel Cox, USN (Ret.) for making our arrangements.

And what a tour it was! We were ushered into the Underwater Branch where we saw the “purloined trumpet,” which was found a few years ago next to the remains of USS Houston (CA-30). The instrument has been soaking in a special liquid—a necessary treatment due to its many years in salt water. It is hoped that the trumpet will be able to be restored to 'display' condition, and that possibly, traceable DNA can be extracted for identification purposes. We also saw several other retrieved USS Houston artifacts that are all being housed and readied for an anticipated enlarging of the USS Houston CA-30 exhibit in the museum.

From there, we took the short walk over to the museum to see the greatest ship model display one could ever imagine: the original Boucher model of USS Houston CA-30. The 14-foot-long model was beautifully lit, and was still as magnificent as it was when it was unveiled in 2011 after a comprehensive restoration process.

At the end of our tour, we all were contented to return to the hotel to freshen up and have a bite at the hotel restaurant. After I got Trudy safely on her train back home, and bid good-bye to the Flynn's, it was obvious everyone involved had a terrific, moving, emotional, and satisfying visit to the nation's capital, and the places and things so dear to all of us.
As our calendar (and fiscal) year comes to a close, I am proud to point out that due to your continued generosity, we will be able to continue to pursue opportunities for permanent remembrances of the USS Houston CA-30. One such project currently in progress is a proposed memorial plaque for display at the hotel standing on the former grounds of the “Bicycle Camp” on Java. We also should be able, for the foreseeable future, to award a modest yet significant scholarship to one of our CA-30 descendants, or other interested, worthy candidate. Again, all of this is possible because of your support, and we truly thank all of you who contribute to our funding.

We are busy these days preparing for a most memorable “Day of Remembrance” in Houston, TX on 3 – 4 March 2017, which will mark the 75th anniversary of the loss of USS Houston CA-30 and HMAS Perth (D-29). The Houston Maritime Museum, the Australian National Maritime Museum and our Association are planning a wonderful set of events which will pay tribute to these gallant ships, their Captains, and crews. We hope you will plan to attend.

Dana Charles, our Association VP/Correspondent/Researcher and Bluebonnet Editor, continues his brilliant work in those functions. Sue Kreutzer works diligently on reunion planning, merchandise coordination and of course, the web page. She also facilitates the Board of Managers throughout the year with our monthly meetings. Pam Foster handles all financial matters, accounting, and tax submissions and distributes all hard copy Blue Bonnet newsletters. These folks also do double duty on the Scholarship Committee along with “Next Generationer,” Scott Ingram (son of Bill). Many thanks to Bernice Harapat who is heading up the proposed ‘Bicycle Camp’ plaque project. We simply would not be where we are, doing what we are able to do, without these dedicated folks who deserve all the thanks anyone cares to offer them. A day does not go by without they having my/Trudy's appreciation.

March is right around the corner, many details will be offered in this edition, I urge all interested parties to make your plans early and secure great, reasonably priced travel arrangements.

Most of all, stay well,

John
Son of Otto and Trudy Schwarz

The 360-foot-long Los Angeles Class submarine USS Houston (SSN-713) was decommissioned on 26 August 2016 at 10:00 a.m. in a ceremony held at Naval Base Kitsap in Bangor, WA. The Master of Ceremonies was LTCDR Jason Glab, Executive Officer of SSN-713. The Invocation and Benediction were provided by Chaplain LT Barry Barlow, CO, U.S. Sea Cadet Corps, Houston Division. CMDR Scott McGinnis, USN, SSN-713’s Commanding Officer, presented Welcoming Remarks, followed by Guest Speaker Remarks by CAPT Michael Lewis, USN, Deputy Commander, Submarine Squadron 19.

The nuclear-powered USS Houston (SSN-713) was launched on 21 March 1981, and commissioned on 25 September 1982, sponsored by Mrs. Barbara Pierce Bush. With a hull diameter of 33 feet, the submarine displaced 6,000 Tons when surfaced, and 6,900 Tons when submerged. Her crew included 15 officers and 120 enlisted men.

The SSN-713 was the fourth U.S. Navy warship to carry the name USS Houston, named after the City of Houston, Texas. Captured in WWI, the German freighter Liebenfels was commissioned as the first USS Houston (AK-1) in 1917 and served in various Atlantic and Pacific convoy duties. She was decommissioned in 1922. The second U.S. warship to bear the name Houston was the heavy cruiser USS Houston (CA-30). The third Houston, a light cruiser, was launched as USS Houston (CL-81) on 19 June 1943 after CA-30 was lost at the Battle of Sunda Strait (1 March 1942). Our Association thanks all crewmen of SSN-713 for their service and extends best wishes for the future.
Notes on news received via email at contact@usshouston.org and via regular mail...

- 8/9/16: Received the following email: “Hello, I am writing a book about my father’s 30 year Navy career (not on the Houston) and am looking for the meaning of the phrase "Little Ocko." I see that there was a USS Houston newsletter in the 1930s and 40s with a column titled, "Little Ocko Says." I am wondering if there is any connection. In the audio tapes I made with Dad, before he died, for use in this book, he uses the phrase and I am eager to find its correct meaning. If you are able to give me any help, I would appreciate hearing from you. Thank you in advance for your time, Frank J Zwolinski.”

- 8/9/16: I replied to Mr. Zwolinski as follows: “Dear Frank, Thank you for your email regarding the phrase/name “Little Ocko.” I’m sorry to report that I cannot find any mention of that in any of our USS Houston (CA-30) archives. However, I will be happy to publish your letter in the next issue of our newsletter (December 2016 issue) to see if any of our 6 remaining survivors can shed any light on the phrase/name. Again, thank you for your email.” [Survivors: Please let me know if you can help explain what “Little Ocko” means. Email me at: dana@usshouston.org, or write me at: PO Box 2457, Kirkland, WA 98083. Thanks! Dana Charles].

- Received an email from Lost Battalion NG Terry Shields: “The 72th Reunion of the Lost Battalion 131st Field Artillery & USS Houston was held July 21 – 24, 2016 with around 45 attending. Robert Hanley & wife Eileen and Bill Ingram were our two survivors who attended, both Navy. Widows: Jimmie Pryor, Leeta Ficklin, Teresa Reilly, Lee Robinson, Dorothy Johnson, Rosalie Gregg, Hazel Leatherwood, Marie Matlock, Hortense Offerle, and Dorothy Prunty looked as lovely as ever. On Thursday evening and again Friday afternoon we skyped with Eddie Fung and wife Judy since they were unable to come this year (this was great! Eddie, Robert and Bill had a great visit). This year, there was a new approach to having speakers. One Next Generation member from the Army, Navy & Marines (Randy Matthews son of the late W.F. “Hook” Matthews; Val Poss daughter of the late Valdon Roberts; and JoAnn Wychopen, daughter of the late Charley Pryor) spoke about what it was like to be a child of a POW. There were a few tears & some laughter mixed in. We missed those of you that couldn’t make it & hope to see you next year! It will be in Granbury, Texas at the Hilton Garden Inn. The Date is: August 3-5, 2017 departing on Sunday the 6th. Please mark your calendars and looking forward to seeing you next year. Terry (Ogle) Shields, Daughter of the Late Ray Ogle-Lost Battalion 131 Field Artillery.”

- 8/25/16: Received the following email: “Sept. 27, 1934. I have a picture of my mother and a Captain of the USS Houston on the above date. I'm trying to confirm the Captain's name to compare to the signature. My mother Maria Squires was "Little Ms. Galveston" at the time. She may have been part of a presidential party. Do you know of any records that might help me get more details? Linda Truax”

- 8/26/16: After consulting with Don Kehn, Jr, I replied to Linda Truax as follows: “Linda, Our Association’s USS Houston (CA-30) Historian Don Kehn, Jr. reports that the photo definitely is of CAPT Walter B. Woodson, USN, who was Commanding Officer of USS Houston (CA-30) at that time. I’m sorry to report that our Association archives do not contain any information regarding CAPT Woodson…”

- 10/17/16: Received the following email: “I am looking for relatives of Charles Collings. He is my uncle, my mother’s only brother. He had two sons, Patrick and Michael. I would like to get in touch with them; I haven’t seen them in over 50 years. I know he spent the war in a Japanese prison camp, I am his namesake. Thank you for your help. All the Best, Charley Tull.”

- 10/17/16: Replied to Mr. Tull via email as follows: “Dear Mr. Tull, Thank you for contacting us regarding your uncle, U.S.S. Houston (CA-30) Survivor Charles M. Collings, SF2/c, USN. Unfortunately, our Association’s records lack much postwar information on Mr. Collings and his sons. I will post your inquiry in the upcoming December 2016 issue of our Association’s newsletter to see if one of our 6 still-living survivors may have some information…” [Survivors: If you have any information to share regarding Charles M. Collings, please let me know. – Dana Charles]

- 10/20/16: Received the following email reply from Mr. Tull: “Hello Dana, I had never read the accounts of the men onboard the Houston before, but did on your website. I was crying like a baby. Knowing that my uncle was one of those who survived the sea battle only to be tortured for three and a half years after that. He never ever talked about what happened. He joined the Navy in 1932 and after the war he stayed in and retired in 1952; he was a Chief Ship fitter, E-8, I believe. He passed away on June 16, 1976 at the age of 61. He died of lung cancer. Because of my Uncle Charles and my Dad and his brothers I too joined the Navy in 1965. I was onboard the USS Altair (AKS 32). I got off active duty in September 1968 and received my Honorable Discharge in June of 1971. Thanks for all your help and for listening. All the Best, Charley Tull.”

- 10/21/16: I replied to Charley Tull as follows: Dear Charley, Thank you for sharing information about your family’s service, and your service, to our country. Thank you also for your interest in your uncle, USS Houston (CA-30) Survivor Charles M. Collings. The WWII ordeal of our USS Houston (CA-30) survivors was/is truly remarkable. Attached is a scan of a copy of Mr. Collings’ original “POW service record,” which was kept early on during his captivity. The survivors who kept this record lost contact with Mr. Collings sometime in October 1942 when, because of his special technical skills, the Japanese transported him via a Japanese “hellship” to a POW labor camp in Japan. Below are some general notes pertaining to Mr. Collings’ POW captivity. If you have any questions, please let me know…Sincerely, Dana.”

Sunken Allied Ships Removed From the Java Sea Floor
By Dana Charles

The Defense ministries of Britain and the Kingdom of the Netherlands have reported that the remains of six WWII warships sunk off the Indonesian coast during the WWII Battle of the Java Sea have been removed, possibly by unknown scrap metal salvagers. Recent expeditions to the Java Sea area to document the ships prior to next year’s 75th anniversary of the Battle of the Java Sea made the discoveries of the missing British, Dutch, and American ships, which include: the British heavy cruiser HMS Exeter; the British destroyer HMS Electra; the British destroyer HMS Encounter; the American submarine USS Perch; the Dutch light cruiser HNLMS DeRuyter; and the Dutch light cruiser HNLMS Java.

HNLMS De Ruyter

The February 27, 1942 Battle of the Java Sea was one of the deadliest defeats of the Pacific War for American, British, Dutch, and Australian naval forces by Imperial Japanese naval forces. The defeat allowed Japanese invasion forces to land and occupy the entire Dutch East Indies seventy-five years ago. Approximately 2,200 Allied sailors perished during the battle.

Missing Dutch Warships
In 2002 amateur divers discovered the remains of the Dutch warships HNLMS DeRuyter, HNLMS Java, and HNLMS Kortenaer on the seabed of the Java Sea. But, a recent international expedition to the wreck site to place plaques on the wreckage of the vessels made the startling discovery that the ships had vanished. In the Netherlands, the De Telegraaf newspaper ran a front page story under the headline: “Mystery in the Java Sea.” The Netherlands Defense Ministry said, “The wrecks of HNLMS De Ruyter and HNLMS Java have seemingly gone completely missing. A large piece is also missing from HNLMS Kortenaer…Divers found only traces of the ships while sonar showed imprints of the wrecks on the ocean floor…An investigation has been launched to see what has happened to the wrecks, while the cabinet has been informed.”

More than 900 Dutch and 250 Indo-Dutch sailors perished during the Battle of the Java Sea, including the Allied fleet commander, Dutch Rear Admiral Karel Doorman. The wrecks of the Dutch ships had been viewed as sacred war graves. “The desecration of a war grave is a serious offense,” said the Netherlands Ministry of Defense. Top Dutch officials reportedly reacted with anger when news of the salvaging reached them.

Missing British and American Ships
In a statement the United Kingdom’s Ministry of Defense said that “Serious concern” had been expressed to the Indonesian government. The Ministry condemned the “unauthorized disturbance of any wreck containing human remains,” and requested Indonesian authorities take “appropriate action to protect the sites from any further disturbance... Many lives were lost during this battle and we would expect that these sites are respected and left undisturbed without the express consent of the United Kingdom...It is British Government policy that our military wrecks are offered appropriate protection and management.”

The British heavy cruiser HMS Exeter had a crew of approximately 700 men. 54 crewmen died when the Japanese navy sank the Exeter on 1 March 1942. After the Exeter went down, the Japanese managed to rescue most of the crewmen, who then became prisoners of war. Both HMS Encounter and HMS Electra had 145-man crews. Both ships were overloaded with allied sailors rescued from other ships destroyed during the Java Sea battle when they, too, were sunk.

Salvagers in SE Asian Waters

Salvagers, often pretending to be fishermen, have reportedly located the WWII ship wrecks in the waters not only around Indonesia, but also Singapore and Malaysia. Off the coast of Malaysia in 2014, the remains of HMS Prince of Wales and HMS Repulse, containing some 800 Royal Navy sailors, were found to have been ravaged by unknown salvagers.

Andy Brockman, an archaeologist and researcher in maritime crime explained in an article published in The Guardian that “[Salvaging] is like a cottage industry... Basically, they use explosives and grabs to rip things apart. You get basis steel. In a single engine room you have a lot of non-ferrous metals, copper and brass, which have a premium on the scrap metal market.”

Indonesian Government’s Viewpoint

Meanwhile, the Indonesian government is refusing to accept blame for the missing warships. According to The Guardian, “Bambang Budi Utomo, the head of the Indonesian National Archeological Centre, part of the education and culture ministry, said on Thursday that Indonesia could not be expected to protect the sites without assistance. ‘The Dutch government cannot blame the Indonesian government because they never asked us to protect those ships. As there was no agreement or announcement, when the ships go missing, it is not our responsibility.’ Indonesia’s navy said the ships should not have been disturbed but it was not its responsibility to protect them. ‘The Indonesian navy cannot monitor all areas all the time,’ navy spokesman Gig Jonias Mozes Sipasulta told Agence France-Presse. ‘If they ask why the ships are missing, I’m going to ask them back, why didn’t they guard the ships?’”

RADM Cox’s Reaction to the Discovery of the Missing Warships

LATE BREAKING NEWS: As this issue of the Blue Bonnet was about to be published, we received a copy of the following 28 November 2016 email from Rear Admiral Samuel Cox, USN (Retired), Curator of the Navy and Director of the Naval History and Heritage Command to Jacques Brandt, Chairman of the “Karel Doorman Fonds” in the Netherlands. In this email (below), RADM Cox expresses his views about the discovery of the missing warships and he also explains what he intends to do about the situation. — Dana Charles.

Dear Mr. Brandt,

Thank you for sharing the results of the diving expedition, and I share your regret and sadness at the result. The Royal Netherlands Navy fought with great valor against overwhelming odds, along with Australian, British and U.S. allies, and those Sailors deserved to have their last resting place remain undisturbed. The anguish that this news must bring to the families of those Sailors lost in this campaign must be considerable.

We have been working through the U.S. Embassy in Jakarta as best we can to try to convince the Indonesian Government to protect war-grave sites of allied warships in accordance with their own cultural resources laws. Our focus has been on USS Houston and HMAS Perth, but as the process moved forward, we had hoped that the protection would be extended to the warships of all nations. The process has been very slow going, and regrettably as it turns out, too slow.

Your report does not mention USS Pope (DD-225,) which went down in proximity to HMS Exeter and HMS Encounter, and presumably has shared their unfortunate final fate.

At this point, I cannot speak for whatever diplomatic or legal actions the U.S. Government might be able to take. However, my intent is to recommend up my chain of command that the strongest possible action be taken as a deterrent to any such additional activity around the globe.

With respect,

Sam

Our Association has donated a 22”x 17½” print of Tom Freeman’s beautiful painting depicting USS Houston (CA-30) fighting at Sunda Strait, called “They Sold Their Lives Dearly” to the Museum of the U.S. Navy. According to Executive Director John K. Schwarz, the Navy plans to use the print in a USS Houston (CA-30) display at a new U.S. Navy Museum. The Association’s Board of Managers unanimously voted to purchase and to donate the print during its November 2016 teleconference.

Well, what kind of ship will the next Houston be,

One is now decommissioned, the other on the bottom of the Sea.
One a Cruiser, the other a Sub.
No corny comments about rubba dub dub.
The Colors can be seen on the Ceremonial Deck.
The other was seen when all the guns flashed, keeping the enemy in check.
One beneath the waves silently prowled.
The surface ship was in your face, it had big guns that howled.
Different missions in different times.
Both stood watch, the bells marked the time.
Binoculars and lookouts made it easier to look.
In a sub though, it better be by the book.
The call turn the ship, that way... go.
Drop a pan and the Chief rips your a... stinging rebuke, thanks for the torpedo.
Both have a history, one led by Rooks,
The battle was epic, one for the books.
The last patrol a success, led by McGinnis.
A silent patrol, it’s time ceremonially finished.
Now the question is, what will USS Houston be next,
I hope the message is loud and proud, not sent by a text.
One Houston slipped to the bottom of the Sea,
The other stood on her tail, the down was an up or somewhere bubble, hey watch your head,
There I was, minding my own business in bed.
That’s the question to me,
A ship on the surface or one you will rarely see?

HMAS Perth III Returns to Australia After Operation Manitou

HMAS Perth III returned to Fleet Base West in Australia on 11 November 2016 following a six-month deployment to the Middle East. The ship had been a part of Operation Manitou, countering terrorism, piracy, and drug smuggling with patrols in the Persian Gulf, Gulf of Aden, Red Sea, and parts of the Indian Ocean. It was the Perth’s first patrol to the Middle East. Her crew of 192 patrolled more than 25,000 nautical miles since leaving Rockingham, Australia on 7 June, according to an article in the Weekend Courier, written by Tim Slater. “Commander Australian Fleet Rear Admiral Stuart Mayer said HMAS Perth had served as part of the multi-national Combined Maritime Forces and had been at the forefront of maritime security,” the article said. Although the ship did not catch any offenders on the high seas, Commander Australian Fleet Rear Admiral Stuart Mayer said it played a vital role in keeping waterways safe.

Commanding Officer of HMAS Perth-III, Captain Ivan Ingham (center) celebrates the 26 August 2016 birthday of HMAS Perth-III with the ship’s youngest member, Seaman Boatswains Mate Bridget Hopkins and oldest member, Petty Officer Maritime Logistics - Chef Renato Franz. The Perth was on patrol in the Middle East region as part of Operation MANITOU.
